THE METHODIST MINISTERS.

astoral Work-Its Pleasures and Its Pains-How to Fill Empty Churches-

Intro-African Civilization. Yesterday, notwithstanding the storm, a goodly number of the Methodist ministers gathered in heir usual meeting place and discussed the subject of pastoral work in some of its aspects. The tev. W. McAlister led the discussion and referred to three features of the work, namely-preaching, visiting the sick, and visiting from house to house, e laid greatest stress on the latter, and said that the empty pews in our churches are due to the neg-Beet of this duty. The point at which modern ninisters fail is just where Paul succeeded -he preached from house to house, and, as he tells us, he warmed the people in this way with tears. This plan never fails to get the people to church and gather them around a minister. But a man nust take some time to do this, and he must also have time to do this, and he must also have time to study—that is, if he writes out two sermons for the Sabbath.

This discussion, interesting as it was, was overshadowed by the Rev. Professor Biyden's remarks about

This discussion, interesting as it was, was overshadowed by the Rev. Professor Biyden's remarks about

INTRO-AFRICAN CIVILIZATION.

The Professor is as black as a coal, of medium size and is unity-three years of age. He was born in St. Thomas, West Indies, in 1841, and was evidently a very precocious lad, for at the early age of nine years, under all the disadvantages of his race in that island he had mastered the rudimentary branches of an English education and had delved a little into the Latin when some one suggested that the United States was the place for him. He would here get a college education free or at least very cheaply. He came hither in 1850 and applied to two Northern colleges, to which he had been recommended, but his race was under the ban of color and he could not gain admittance. The Republic of Liberia was then suggested as the place for a lad with his aspirations. He went thinter, entered a high school as a pupil, graduated and became a teacher and aiterwards principal, and the two colleges that refused him admittance in his boyhood have since recognized his merits by conferring upon him unsought the honorary degree of Master of Arts. He has lived in Airica twenty-three years, and, being in the Preachers' Meeting yesterday by invitation, he was introduced and invited to speak, chiefly, however, with reference to the civilization of the people of intro Africa, where the Methodist Episcopal church has lately ordered the founding of a mission when the proper persons can be found to superintend and conduct it. He had made a journey of 300 miles on foot into the interior a short time before he left Liberia, and was therefore, supposed to be able to speak of the country with some assurance. The tribes along the coast, he says, are disorganized because of the slave trade, which, however, having been abolished within a few years, has enabled them to make a few feelie efforts to reorganize. But the interior shows a better and more intelligent class of people. The difference between the tribes along the coast, he says, are disorganized because of the slave trade, which, however, having been abolished within a few years, has enabled them to make a few feels efforts to reorganize. But the interior shows a better and more inteiligent class of people. The difference between the fantees and the Ashantees was so marked that the British soldiers could not find words sufficiently strong to express their detestation of the cowardice of the former. It is well known the latter gave them great trouble.

MAROMETANS ARE VERY NUMEROUS between say fifty miles from the Libertan boundary and Sondan, and their influence is left in tribes and places where they are not seen. They have mosquees just as in civilized countries, and the lible in Arabic (the Issue of the American Bible Society mainly) has been scattered among them. Professor Blyden took a few hundred copies with him in his travers and they were eagerly songht after. This is the field to which God is calling the Methodist Episcopal Church. He met the King of Kokoros, who had studied English from a spelling book given to him thirty years ago by a missionary who penetrated to his country. This King was now anxious that schools should be established in his territory, and he made Professor Blyden an offer of great gifts if he would stay and teach his people. The people are temperate and intelligent, and if the Methodist Episcopal Church will establish schools there it will soon see results that will surprise it. The suppression of the slave trade has wrought the most wonderful change there. The Professor had made a tour of the interior in the days of slavery, and could, therefore, judge of the change. The King of Kokoros had offered the Liberians that if they opened highroads twenty-five miles beyond that to Soucan is Mahemetan. And as their religion prohibits the manulacture or use of ardent spirits they exist as a barrier between Liberia and the interior to the spread of intemperance. The Mahometans are great propagandists of their interior of Africa. In formation was given in answer to questions put to the Professor by the preachers. To show how CHRISTIANITY IS TOUCHING INTRO-AFRICA.

cerainstry is forchisto in the strain care, Mr. Blyden related the substance of a conversation he had had with the King of Timbo. The Professor called the King's attention to the wealth and power and greatness of those nations that recognize Christ and his religion. The King remarked that Abraham had two sons—ishmael and Isaac. He said he and his people were descendants of Ishmael. The people of Europe and America were descendants of Isaac. Christ was a prophet sent from God to the children of Isaac. Mahomet was a prophet of the same order sent to the descendants of Ishmael. There is no difference in the revelations brought by them, but Mahomet has simply brough the latest news from the skies. There was, therefore, really no antagonism between them, and he (the King) saw no reason why Ishmael and Isaac should not shake hands some day in his country. This region of Arrica is sel-supporting, and the people carry on manufactures, such as smelting from and manufacturing the product of iron, and they have a large internal commerce among themselves and with some pagan tribes around them. The Professor believed nal commerce among themselves and with some pagan tribes around them. The Professor believed that few better or more hopeful mission nelds could be found to-day in any quarter of the world.

St. Louis, Mo., May 25, 1874. In the morning session of the Presbyterian General Assembly to-day a report was read from the special committee appointed by the last General Assembly to confer with the Central Committee in regard to the appointment of speakers, stating that they had a conference on the 31st of March, the result of which would be announced in a forth-

No marter in what cause you ask money of them they invariably give you $5, and if you consolidate the objects under one board you decrease your revenue. It was not consolidation to call these boards bureaus. There was no saving in such a proceeding. He did not see any great reason for a change anyway. The Church to-day in matters of contributions. He had been chairman of the Committee on Freedmen at its start, and he opposed its being merged with the Hoard of Home Missions. He wanted to keep it distinct. If the people of the West wanted more churches they should do all they could to keep that Board intact. The constant agitation of change in the Boards, he thought, had an effect on men who let in their wills bequests to the various Boards.

On motion of Dr. Herrick Johnson the consideration of the second point in the uninority report, in effect that with the Board of Home Missions be consolidated the Sustentation and Freedmen's Boards, was postponed and the point relating to publication taken up.

Dr. Wilham P. Breed, of Philadelphia, presented statistics relating to the work done by the Publication Society and colporteurs in ten years. He said 3,000,000 volumes and 30,000,000 pages had been distributed. He advised them to let the Board alone it they would act wisely.

Dr. seth C. Logan, of Scranton, said if there was to be consolidation he wanted a Board of Evangelization, with a Board of Home Missions as an outcropping.

The testimony, however, showed that deceased was fatally injured by accidentally failing down stairs while intoxicated. The jury fully exonerated Monahan, and Coroner Croker discharged him from custody.

Sorra Arrow, from New Bedford for New York, with a cargo of merchandise, sprung aleak opposite "Old Hen Bocks," near Gicn Cove, Li, about six o'clock on Sunday evening, and notwithstanding the efforts of the crew to keep her affoat, she sunk in less than fitteen minutes. The whole of her valuable cargo was lost. Two saliors were washed overboard, and having not since been seen, are supposed to be lost. A heavy sea was running and it was with the greatest difficulty a boat could be kept free from water. However, after experiencing untold difficulties, the captain, with a portion of his crew, managed to reach a rocky headland in safety. The Arrow was a new vessel, having been built but little more than a year, and was valued at $15,000. As the water at this point is not unusually deep, it is thought the vessel can be raised without great difficulty.
